

CPA LIFE MEMBERSHIP AWARD

PHILOSOPHY

A physiotherapist that is involved in professional activities provides other physiotherapists with the essential role model of professional behaviors and practice. A physiotherapist who maintains this valuable contribution throughout their career is a rare and most highly valued member of the profession. Professional leadership should be fostered and supported by the Association and the profession by recognizing outstanding and lasting contributions.

HISTORY

The concept of Life Membership was proposed and accepted at the 1945 CPA Annual General Meeting. However, due to various delays the first Life Membership Awards were not given until 1956. Life Membership entitles recipients to CPA Full Membership dues-free for life.

PURPOSE

The purpose of the Life Membership Award is to recognize physiotherapists who have provided outstanding service of long duration to the profession and the Association.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTION

The candidate's peers must recognize the individual as having contributed to the profession and the Association through outstanding service. This significant contribution must be sustained over a period of twenty-five years or longer of CPA membership and service to the profession at a local, provincial and/or national level. Examples of eligible activities include (but are not limited to):

- Promoting the physiotherapy profession nationally
- Leadership which serves to motivate others to become involved in professional activities
- Raising the profile of the Association within the physiotherapy profession
- Contribution to the profession through Association activities

ELIGIBILITY

The individual must be a physiotherapist with current or past CPA membership of 25 years or longer.

SELECTION OF CANDIDATE(S)

The CPA Awards Committee will select the recipient(s). This award has an unlimited number of potential recipients.

PRESENTATION

The award will be presented annually at Congress. In a year where Congress is not occurring, an alternate opportunity to present the awards will be organized.
